A patient recounts the trauma she experienced as a child being tied down for dental care.

Dentist The Menace: Patient recounts trauma of being strapped down

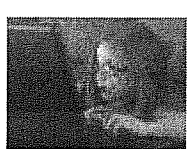

blog.dentistthemenace.com

Well, I've not been to the dentist in about 5 or so years. I don't remember the last time, to be honest. I have always had a huge fear of dentists, but my biggest trauma was being held down for cleanings and fillings as a child every 6 months. Even though I was cooperative, I would be strapped down.

Dentist The Menace: Top 5 Ways Small Smiles Dental Centers has violated their Corporate Integrity Ag

blog.dentistthemenace.com

I knew they would disregard each and every word of the Corporate Integrity Agreement. I said so right here, the very day it was announced. As for the $24 million paid to the Federal government, and just over $2 million to the state of New York, to them it was going to be nothing more than the cost

Tina Marie Gomes Well it's inhumane that those mothers putting their children in the chairs of Probationer Dentists are not informed in advance...all mothers could choose a different dentist that doesn't have to be disciplined in order to practice. Probationer Dentists can retire and file bankruptcy if patients file a complaint/lawsuit and never be held accountable...they can move to other states with no trace of their conduct too.
